

Michele Calderigi

Executive Coach

info@ariacx.com

Michele spent the early years of her career as a corporate Vice President in Human Resources where she focused on the employer point-of-view. Michele had to develop and execute corporate human resource strategies to hire the right people for the right jobs and ensure the company was able to achieve its goals; but she never lost sight of the value of people and their dreams, wants and needs, so she, too, shifted careers.

With extensive experience in HR, Michele shifted her focus to the employees, the people that drive companies. As an Executive Coach her most gratifying work is individual client career-guidance and management; she loves nothing more than to help clients to unveil their "Rock Star" qualities. Michele guides her clients to develop strategies that are motivating and activating; and together they set goals to achieve next career placement as client's transition.

Michele's clients refer to her as a life-preserver above board and calm under the rough waters of change that clients inevitably move through. With a depth of experience interviewing thousands of employment candidates and hiring hundreds of employees across the country and around the world, she is unusually steady and calming with an unwavering belief that everyone has a point of differentiation and she can guide them to it.
